U.S. GNP Rises, But Inflation Is A Major Factor

WASHINGTON, April 19 (WP).—The gross national product the market value of all the goods and services America produces-rose at the faster-than-usual annual rate of 11.8 percent in the first quarter of 1972, the Commerce Department reported today.

But the biggest quarterly surge in inflation since early 1970 was responsible for more than half of the apparent upswing, and the real economic growth was well below the rate the administration has been counting on for this year. The administration predicted in January that the rate of real growth—the increase in actual economic output would be 6 percent in 1972.

It was looking to that strong a real recovery for reduction of the unemployment rate from last year's rough average of 6 percent to somewhere in the more politically comfortable "neighborhood of 5 percent" by election time. For the first three months of

SPACE CENTER, Houston, April 19 (AP).—Astronaut Charles M. Duke, 196,000 miles from earth abourd Apollo-16, found himself in need of a tailor yesterday. His space suit was too tight:

Lt. Col. Duke and astronaut John W. Young practiced putting on the suits they'll wear on the moon's surface, and Col. Duke said it was hard to get his six-foot frame into the bulky white suit. Capt. Young, acting as Col. Duke's valet, had trouble with a zipper.

"John had a difficult time getting the zipper closed," said Col. Duke. "He zipped it in front first so the (back) zipper would line up better and got it closed."

WASHINGTON, April 19 (IHT). -President Nixon is expected to report to the nation next week on the escalation of the Vietnam war—which today triggered vio-lent debate in Congress—and its effect on further U.S. troop with-

Mr. Nixon had promised a statement before May 1 on plans for further withdrawal of U.S. ground combat troops from South Vietnam. The administration has pledged to cut U.S. troops in Vietnam to 69,000 by May 1, but lately has become noncommittal on whether the pullout would continue after that in light of the new situation.

Senate approval for a resolution condemning North Vietnam for invading South Vietnam and declaring support "of the gov-ernment of the United States in honorable peace."

Democrats accused President Nixon of risking endless war in Vietnam and escalating the conflict into a confrontation with the Russians, thus risking possible collapse of the nuclear arms limitation talks.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers, Who testified before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee Monday, Icturned to the Capitol today to give House members a briefing on the present situation and its implications. He sought to head off a new effort by House doves to legislate a quick end to U.S. involvement in the war.

After his closed-door enpearance, the secretary said he found there still is "a jot of support" for Mr. Nixon's Vietnam policies.

He also said he sees no indication at present that the U.S. attacks on Hanol and Haipbong have had any effect on the scheduled visit to Moscow by President Nixon.

His appearance was timed to precede a scheduled caucus of House Democrats which was to develop a party position on Kiton administration war policies. But the Rogers testimony, plus sudden shifts in strategy by both supporters and opponents of the administration, led the caucus to postpone a vote until tomorrow. Meanwhile, in the Senate. Campaign Finance in the U.S.—the Personal Wealth Factor Rockefellers Speni $4.5 Million on 1970 Governor's Race ing the fraction of his guber-natorial campaign contributions

By Ben A. Franklin

WASHINGTON. April 19 (NYT).—The most detailed study ever made of campaign contributions to political candidates has confirmed a cynical notion about American elections—that one formidable asset for public office is great personal wealth.

This finding is documented in several new studies and in a large, computerized analysis of 1970 campaign contributions reported in Washington and 10 states. The studies and the analysis were prepared by the Citizens' Research Foundation of Princeton, N.J.

The foundation, a nonprofit, nonpartisan election spending study center, has just published, at $75 a copy, a compendium of campaign donors of $500 or more in 1970. On the basis of public but formerly unassembled data, the foundation's studies disclose that

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York and his family have given him the most money ever spent hy an American to obtain and hold public office-including family spending of at least $45 million in 1970,

• In the most devastating and ligest exchange of fire, behind the high-rise Rossville Flats, civilians shot first and there is "no reason to suppose that the soldiers wou'd have opened fire if they bad not been fired upon

• There was no breakdown in army discipline, no indiscriminate firing, although some paratroopers behaved more responsibly than others.

 Although none of the victims were proven to have carried arms, there is "strong suspicion that some ... bad been firing weapons or handling bombs."

In a special statement in Parliament today. Prime Minister Edward Heath said the government accepted Lord Widgery's findings, and "all shades of opinion sincerely concerned with the truth must feel indebted to him for his objective end painstaking analysis of evenis."

Lord Widgery also compiled a detailed narrative, and it does not fully support the conclusions in his report on the inquiry. This will make the inquiry and its results a continuing and possibly inflammatory subject of debate. He said "the nost important single issue" is determining who fired first in the Rossville Flats exchange. He summarized sharply conflicting eyewitness testimony on both sides. Bogside residents and some neutral observers insisted that the soldlers opened up. The military and some neutral witnesses said clvillans-presumably IRA gunmen-began the shooting. Lord Wldgery concluded that the soldiers are lelling the truth largely because one team of television newsmen supported

At least four of the 13 victims were killed by shots "fired without justification." Lorn Widgery reported. He said the four were part of a civilian group running eway from trouble.

The army, he observed, claimed that its every shot was an aimed round, targeted on an identified gunman or bomb thrower. However. Lord Wldgery said that grounds put forward for identifying gunmen at windows were sometimes flimsy" and "the identification of supposed nail bombers was equally nebulous."

Army 'Vindicated'

Geoffrey Johnson Smith, defense under secretary of state, said the army will take no disciplinary action against any seldiers involved although Lord Widgery's report rebuked several. Mr. Johnson Smith concluded that "the army has been wholly vindleated by the report." He said: "I think the army comes out of it very well indeed." Ulster Protestants agreed. The Rev. William Beattie, ao alde to the Rev. Ian Paisley, a political leader, called the report "fair" lating of agreements." Today Sen. Fulbright called the renewed bombing of the North, which he said proved the bankruptcy of the President's Vletna-mization program, "barbaric, in-humane and obscene."

Later House Democrats wrangled for two hours trying to develop a majority-party position on the war. But at the last minute members critical of the administration's policy dropped an effort to get the 257-member caucus to endorse a stringent end-the-war bill.

They substituted a resolution that instructs the Foreign Affairs Committee to report within 30 days legislation to "terminate all U.S. military involvement in and over Indochina, subject only to obtaining the release of our prisoners of war and all available information on the missing in

But the caucus did vote, 105-97, today to remove from the original proposal by anti-war members a reference to the Senate bill sponsored hy Sena. U.S. prisoners.

Many House doves have rallied behind today's resolution, sponsored by Democratic whip Thomas P. O'Neill, of Massachu-setts, but the House Foreign Af-fairs Committee, which in the past has never reported out a bill dealing with Vietnam policy, be-cause its senior members have generally supported U.S. policy, now is narrowly divided on tha war because of a change of senti-

Surprising Discovery

U.S. Experts Find Magnetism In First 4 Moon Rock Samples

By Walter Sullivan HOUSTON, April 19 (NYT).— In what was described here yesterday as possibly the most surprising discovery to come from exploration of the moon, it has been found that rock samples of different types collected at all four Apollo landing sites were im-printed with a substantial mag-netic field from three to four ed magnetism. For example, Navy. Capt. John W. Young is to carry out a magnetic survey of Palmetto Crater, a little more then one mile north of the projected landing site.

By means of a magnetometer, this survey will assess the possibility that impacts of large meteorites such as the one that presumably produced this crater, could in some way leave a residue of local magnetism. Two magnetic measurements by astronauts of the Apollo-15 mission, one near Cone Crater and the other, midway between it and their lunar module hinted at this possibility.

Twice as Sensitive

As on previous missions, a magnetometer will be left at the site, its readings radioed to earth automatically. This one, however, will be twice as sensitive and five times more stable than its

Agnew Going To Tokyo on Okinawa Pact

WASHINGTON, April 19 (AP).-The White House announced today that Vice-President Agnew will go to Tokyo on May 15 as President Nixon's personal representative at ceremonies marking the reversion of Okinawa to Japan.

Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said Mr. Nixon is sending Mr. Agnew because the President "attaches great importance to this historic event." Mr. Agnew has never visited Japan, he said.

The United States has administered Okinawa since World War II and is handing the island back to Japan under terms of the agreement negotiated last year.

Mr. Warren said Mr. Agnew's Tokyo stay will be "cf. a reasonably brief duration" because Mr. Nixon wants to confer with him here before the start of his trip to Moscow later the same week.

Mr. Murphy was defeated in November by John V. Tunney, a Democrat, who received family contributions of $123,475. Sen. Tunney is a son of Gene Tunney, the retired heavyweight boxing

State-wide campaigns in Florida also attracted candidates of unusual wealth. Frederick H. Schultz of Jacksonville, a former speaker of the Florida House, lost a bid for the Democratic senatorial nomination, despite a personal contribution of $309,000. The nomination and later the on went to Lawton Chiles.

In the Republican gubernatorial primary, Jack M. Eckerd, a Clearwater, Fla., drug and department-store owner, spent $1,105,832 of his own money on his campaign and failed to win the nomination, which went to Claude R. Kirk fr.

The data sources were the files of the secretary of the Senate and the clerk of the House here in Washington—repositories of required financial filings under the Federal Corrupt Practices Act, which expired this month.

The gifts reported here for congressional races in all 50 states totalled only $7.2 million, a figure believed to be about an $83 million understatement of the $90 million that Mr. Alexander estimates was spent to elect the 92d Congress in 1970. The old federal law did not require financial reporting on primary campaigns. The new one does.

Mr. Allende's decision to seek nationalization of the ITT properties, which the American company values at $200 million, is a challenge to the anti-Marxist majority that controls Congress.

Major Property The major property of ITT in Chile is the Chilean Telephone Co., with a declared book value, recognized in a concession con-tract ratified by the Chilean Congress, of $153 million. ITT owns 70 percent of the company and the contract provides for progressive acquisition of majority ownership by the Chilean government.

Negotiations for purchase of ITT's interest in the telephone company were broken off by the Chilean government in September and a state administrator was named to run the system, which has 360,000 lines. Since then, ITT has become a major political issue in domestic affairs here because of docu-ments, disclosed by Jack Anderson, the U.S. syndicated columnist, alleging that ITT officials and the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency sought to prevent Mr. Allende from taking office through a military coup or economic crisis after be won the presidential election of September, 1970.

Mr. Reinecke told the Senate Judiciary Committee that he met with Mr. Mitchell in the morning of April 26, 1971, and with Mrs. Beard, the Washington lobhyist for the International Telephone & Telegraph Corp., on the afternoon of the same day.

The next day, April 27, a group of San Diego representatives got together at a social reception at Republican National Headquarters here and "that was where the idea really hatched" for the San Diego convention, he said.

Mr. Reinecke denied that he discussed the convention with either Mrs. Beard or Mr. Mitchell at the April 26 meetings. He sald that he "obviously did not... be-cause the idea did not seed until the following day."

It was disclosed earlier that Peter M. Flanigan, 2 top presidential assistant, had agreed to auswer committee questions tomorrow on what he knows about the selection of San Diego as the convention site.

In his testimooy, Mr. Reinecke insisted that all he discussed with Mr. Mitchell was California's economic problems, including the Lockheed Corp.'s effort to obtain a loan guarantee from the government.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D., Mass. expressed astonishment that Mr. Reinecke did not discuss the convention with Mr. Mitchell even though the idea for the convention grose the following Wasn't there anything in those order to prevent a former agent of the Central Intelligence Agency from publishing a magazine ar-ticle or book about the CIA's in-telligence-gathering activities.

The broadly worded court order, signed by U.S. District Judge Albert V. Bryan jr, in Alexandria, Va., also requires the former agent, Victor L. Marchetti, to return to the CIA all documents and other property he obtained while employed at the agency.

In addition, Mr. Marchetti was ordered to suhmit any manuscript or other writing about the CIA —"factual, fictional or otherwise" -to the agency for examination at least 30 days before its release.

The action was based on the theory that Mr. Marchetti had breached a contract be signed as a CIA employee, promising not to disclose information that might jeopardize national security.

Novel Published

Mr. Marchetti was employed hy the CIA from 1955 to 1969, serving at one point as executive assistant to the agency's deputy director. After resigning from the agency, he published a novel called "The Rope Dancer" about an employee of the "National Intelligence Agency."

In affidavits sobmitted to Judge Bryan, high-ranking CIA officials, including director Richard Helms,

Ellsberg Gets Some Trial Data Under Secrecy

LOS ANGELES, April 19 (UPI).—A federal judge ruled yesterday that certain sections of the Peolagon papers, which the government intends to use in the trial of Daniel Ellsberg. must be furnished to the defense but kept in a secret classification.

Judge William M. Byrne sald that he would issue an order that the documents be turoed over to lawyers for Ellsberg and codefendant Anthony J. Russo but that they not be supplied to the press or public.

Judge Byrne said that the documents could be shown to experts, consultants and prospective witoesses in preparation of the defense of the former Rand Corp. employee and his colleague, who are charged with unauthorized possession and use of secret government papers.

Mr. Elisherg was represented by his lawyer but was not in court yesterday. Mr. Russo was there with lawyer Leonard Weinglass. The papers, which Justice Department ettorney David Nissen argued should be kept classified, were understood to deal mainly with American consultations with foreign powers in the evolution of policy in the Vietnam war.

Manuscript Returned

Mr. Latham said that, about two weeks ago. Esquire returned the manuscript without publish-ing it at Mr. Marchetti's request, after Mr. Marchetti told Esquire that he had signed a contract with the publishing house of Albert A. Knopf to do a book about the CIA.

Copies of the magazine article and book outline were submitted to Judge Bryan by the CIA for his private examination. The CIA said that agent Robert P. B. Lehmann of New York obtained the manuscripts from "a con-fidential source" on March 12. With the manuscripts was a CIA deputy director's analysis of

U.S. Loss Seen

The Justice Department argued that if Mr. Marchetti were allowed to breach the agreement, the United States would suffer losses in intelligence sources, techniques and personnel, all of which are the property of the United States. Wind Tears English Blimp From Moorings, It Crashes

LONDON, April 19 (AP).—The airship Europa—the first built in Britain in more than 20 years—crashed into a farm-

The 200-foot airship was built in four months by the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co, from parts shipped from the United States. It was airborne for three hours during its maiden flight last month. Goodysar plans to use the blimp for nerial surveys, advertising and as a TV-camera platform for the Munich Olympics.

Yet these are the very qualities expected of a Fiat. And that includes the Fiat 130. So we designed a big car as easy to drive and as agile as a small one.

A contradiction in terms, you might say. But our designers were able to reconcile them by exceptional attention to the driver's needs, and to those features which influence the feel of the car. The steering, for example. And the suspension—independent all round—with a completely original independent rear suspension system, patented by Fiat, which achieves that rare combination-a quiet, soft ride, and road-holding up to sports car standards. The driver's seat adjusts up and down, as well as fore and aft. So does the steering wheel. There is a hydraulic damper to eliminate road reactions through the steering wheel. And hydraulic power assistance to take the effort out of steering. A brake servo system that makes light work of stopping. A limited-slip

The Strategy of Failure

President Nixon's decision to turn the clock back four years by escalating the bombing of North Vietnam from lts southern panhandle to the Hanoi-Haiphong area is an exercise in folly and futility. It revives a strategy tried for three years and abandoned finally by President Johnson in 1968 because it was demonstrably a failure. The mystery is why it is being tried again.

Secretary Rogers and the White House in separate statements have indicated that the bombing was meant in part as a threat that Mr. Nixon will "take whatever action is necessary" to halt the North Vietnamese offensive in South Vietnam. The full that has followed evidently is intended to underline this warning. Both statements ruled out the reintroduction of American ground forces into the war and, of course, the use nf nuclear weapons. The threat then, directed presumably at Moscow as well as Hanol, is that a continued Communist offensive will hring back large-scale bombing of North Vietnam as in 1965-68—extended, perhaps, to the mining or hombing of Haiphong harbor and other ports. But neither Hanoi nor Moscow is likely to be intimidated now by a threat they have already faced down.

Officials in Washington and Saigon acknowledge that the current North Vletnamese offensive is heing fueled by supplies already in South Vietnam or nearby. Bombing Halphong, the so-called "top of the funnel." they assert, is aimed at the supplies that might reach the front during the summer or later and keep the hattle going then -at a time even more emharrassing politically for President Nixon. If the administration's objective is to prevent this, it is doomed in advance to fail.

As long ago as July, 1966, the CIA and the Pentagon's Defense Intelligence Agency reported that 16 months of hombing North Vietnam "had had no measurable direct effect on Hanoi's ability to mount and support military operations in the South." Moreover, the intelligence estimate concluded that this situation was "not likely to be altered" hy mining Halphong and other harbors or adopting other military proposals then contemplated for expanding the air offensive.

A year later, after the air offensive had been expanded in most proposed ways except for hitting Haiphong harbor, Defense Secretary McNamara reported that "there continues to be no sign that the bombing has reduced Hanol's will to resist, or her ability to ship the necessary supplies

The risk of conflict with the Soviet Union and China dissuaded President Johnson from attacking Haiphong harbor. He conciuded that the Communist superpowers were more likely to increase their invoivement than to back down if their supply ships were sunk. The damage reported by Moscow to several of its ships last weekend, although American planes had orders to avoid Haiphong harbor, emphasizes the President Nixon may be prepared to run this risk. He may be gambling that the Soviet Union will restrain Hanol or restrict its supply flow rather than accept a confrontation that would endanger Mr. Nixon's May 22 visit to Moscow and, with it, soch other Soviet objectives as a strategic arms agreement, increased trade with the United States and Bonn's ratification of the West German-Soviet treaty and the European status quo.

But a SALT agreement and détente in Europe are as much Mr. Nixon's objectives as the Kremlin's, and they are important to his re-election campaign. Is he prepared to risk them and the peace of the world by going heyond implied threats of a navalair hiockade of Halphong-which are unlikely to intimidate Moscow—to the reality? Does he dream of turning Soviet supply ships around in the Gulf of Tonkin the way President Kennedy turned them around during the Cuban missile crisis of 1962?

One danger is that the Soviet Union may feel that Mr. Nixon is biuffing and, calling him, find that he is not. Since the Camhodian invasion of 1970, the President's aldes have hoasted of Mr. Nixon's "unpredictability." The stakes are too high for the nation or the Congress any longer to accept such

But if this nation's waters are to he redeemed, its air to he kept breathable, its remaining open spaces preserved and its wildlifs saved-if, in short, its quality of life is to be maintained and Improved-a far greater sense nf urgency and effort is essential. Certainly the environmental movement will continue to need leadership of unusual skill and dedication.

Among the leaders who have shown hoth those attributes is Sen. Gaylord Nelson, who may he said to have fathered Earth Week. It is precisely because nf our high regard for the senator from Wisconsin that we deplore his current effort to make arms reduction a top item on the agenda of the United Nations Conference on the Human Environment, scheduled for Stockholm in

Offered in his capacity as a congressionally appointed member of the American delegation to that gathering, Sen. Neison's argumeut is that the worldwide investment in guns, ammunition, tanks and warpianes is Laws have heen passed, new agencies an appalling wasts of desperately needed have been created and the courts have, in resources. But the truth of that proposition is far from establishing the logic or desirability of confounding the function of one world conference with that of another.

The Stockholm meeting is even now weighed down hy the burden of East-West politics, with the Soviet Union and its allies threatening to stay out entirely unless East Germany is admitted. To add the enormously complex and delicate question of disarmament, which is to be the subject of other carefully prepared talks between the United States and the Soviet Union, would he to make certain that the Stockholm conference would totally fail not one, but two great causes-disarmament and the human environment as well.

International Opinion

Bombing North Vietnam

Massive retaliation by President Nixon, once the all-out character of the North Vletnamese offensive hecame apparent, has aroused political caterwauling in Washington. It is, however, difficult to know what else Mr. Nixon could have done than to bomb North Vietnam where it really hurts. -From the Daily Telegraph (London).

It is possible that, hecause of the price they personally attach to their coming meeting with Mr. Nixon, the rulers in tha Kremlin may tolerate bis "warning shot" without feeling compelled to cancel the May 22 summit. But it is difficult to see how they could avoid such an extremity if United States hombers were to continue systematically to go to Haiphong and Hanoi for several consecutive days. Mr. Nixon has perhaps not yet made "the one step too many." He prohably cannot afford to make many

-From Le Figaro (Paris).

Having proven that he ran a calculated risk, Mr. Nixon should he careful not to push things to the breaking point. The suggestlm made hy Xuan Thuy in Paris perhaps offers him a way out: A resumption of the Avenue Kleber conference, prolonged by possible secret contacts, would enable the two sides, if not to finish rapidly with the war, at least to stop its bloody escalation. -From Les Echos (Paris).

Signs of North Korea Thaw

There have been signs of a softening in North Korea. Hints have been dropped that a withdrawal of U.S. forces [from South Koreal need not precede friendlier relations. Contacts with Japan have become more substantlal. North Korea ia bldding for greater diplomatic recognition, and has given indications of wanting to spend more of its energies on its own development.

Normalization of relations between North and South Korea is still distant, But greater nutside recognition of both aides could help It along. It might, for example, enable the United Nations to change its role toward Korea. The UN Commission for the Unification and Rehabilitation of Korea serves now only to alienate Pyongyang and Peking. In its place the UN's most profitable longterm function could be to hring both Koreas into membership.

Mr. Nixon's Temper

By James Reston

WASHINGTON.—The administration is talking and acting tough against North Vietnam these days, but the evidence behind the scenes here is that this is a temporary expression of presidential frustration and anger rather then a calculated plan to force a showdown with the Soviet Union in Indochina.

Nixon has always had a tendency to make some dramatic move whenever he feels concerned or scorned. This is what he did in the sudden strikes at Cambodia and Laos, and this is what he has done again by bombing the outskirts of Henot and Haiphong after North Vletnam's invasion of the South.

But the latest telk by Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird about not ruling out any stracks on the North, even the mining of the Halphong harbor, should probably be put in the category of psychological warfara rather than interpreted as any reckless new war plan. For Nixoo usually cools when calmer minds begin working on the problem.

Goaded by Moscow

There is no doubt that the Russians goaded him by increasing substantially their shipments of T-54 heavy tanks, mobile antiaircraft batteries, and SAMs (surface-to-air missiles) to North Vietnam, and It's scarcely credible, considering the recent visits of high-ranking Soviet military officers to Hanoi, that Moscow did not know all about or help plan the North Vietnamese invasion acress the DMZ.

When this invasion was first launched, the official line out of the State Department was that the Soviets were to hleme, but Henry Kissinger, the President's security adviser, thought that this was an unwise tack to take just before the President was hoping tn reach agreements with the Soviet leaders on strategic arms, trade. European accurity, and space in Moscow next month. And it is understood that he recommended that the emphasis on the Soviet arms ahipments be Nevertheless, a few days later, the President himself revived the theme in a speech in Ottawa. ordered the atrikes on Hanol and Halphong, and took his chances on the Soviet reaction.

Since then, Laird has been giving the Senate Foreign Relations Committee a puzzling explanation of the situation. First, he spoke of the massive shipments of Soviet arms to Hanol, and repentedly complained that while the United States was placing "restraints" on its arms shipments to Saigon, Moscow was not adopting a comparable system of restraints on its arms shipments to North Vietnam.

This is a very odd argument, since Laird also conceded before the same committee that the South Vietnamese Air Force now had over 1,000 American planes, over 500 American helicopters. and an air contingent of 40,000 men, with adequate pilots trained in the United States.

Laird did say that Washington had not given Saigon the capacity to bomb Hanol and Haiphong, but he said nothing about the fact that Moscow had not given Hanci the capacity to bomb South Vietnam. Moreover, the United States is now estabulting bombers night and day off the decks of four carriers operating against North Vietnam cut of the Scuth China Sea. And since Moscow obviously has surface-to-sea torpedoes and rockets which could reach these carriers but has not given them to Hanol (though it did give some to Cairo) somebody in Moscow must be putting some restraints on the supplies to North Vietnam.

To hear Laird tell it, the South Vietnamese have fought very well against the Communist invasioo, and have proved the administration's Vietnamization program is working. Saigon, he said, now had the fourth largest air force in the free world. It had fought well in the air, carried out all the air reinforcements at An Loc, knocked out over 100 heavy Soviet tanks in ooe battle, and was now able to take care of itself on the ground with an army of over a million men.

In which case, the committee members wanted to know, why this renewal of massive U.S. bombing in the North, why all the B-52 strikes in support of the Saigon troops in the South, and the risk of bombing oil depots in Hanol and Haiphong which could not affect the present battle?

Laird's answer was that these were necessary to assure the withand to react to the massive act of aggression across the DMZ. This last reason prohably comes nearer the mark. Let them get away with that, and they might try anything.

thera was some logic to this, but bombing Henoi and Halphong to assure the withdrawal of the troops merely brought the response: Who's keeping them from over and North Vietnam still has 110,000 troops fighting in South Vietnam. Moreover, lt will be surprising if the Soviet Union and China do not increase their shipments to Hanol after Nixon's renewal of the air war.

Pullout Goes On

After all, their reaction to Nixon's other sudden lurches at them not to trifle with Nixon. They merely let him cool down and pull back and then gave Henoi more and newer weapons than ever before. And this is

The committee seemed to think

The truth is that, despite all the fear that the war was going into another even more serious and dangerous phase, the United States, even during the battle, has been pulling the troops out at a rate of one thousand a day and withdrawing war materiel at

On Europe's Future

By James Goldsborough

The French Vote

say that the constitution of than at present. tha Fifth Republic was built on government to the National Assembly and the referendum. De Gaulle, with all his wellpublicized contempt for parliament, loved to take his ideas directly to the people. Three times he won on issues he thought he could not get through parliament, twice on Algeria and once on direct election of the president. The fourth time, an inconsequential administrative reform he could have gotten through parliament, he lost, and resigned. Sunday, almost three years to the day of De Gaulle's last referendum, Mr. Pompidou, his successor, holds his first. He is assured of victory, thanks in large part to an incredible blunder by the French Communists, yet there is great disagreement on what victory will mean. The French people are heing asked to approve the enlarge-ment of the Common Market and the "new perspectives that are opening for Europe." The voters are not told what these "new perspectives" might be, but they are asked to approve them.

Immense Irony

There is really immense irony in this vote. Just to think it is the Gaullists, of all people, who are rallying the nation behind a united Europe to march off they know not where is a hit overwhelming, and it has certainly caused some choking throughout the campaign. Mr. Debre, for one, trapped into support since he is in the government, has been assuring one and all that the "new perspectives" will be all very Gaullist, and in a frenzy of Jacobinism he has taken to crying out at campaign meetings, "Supranationality is dead."

Jacques Vendroux, deputy from Calsis and De Gaulle's brotherin-law, wrote of the referendum, "The defenders of Gaullist concepts are worried . . . that they will be taken farther than they want to go." Mr. Vendroux, who threatened to release secret documents from his hrother-in-law on what De Gaulle really wanted, sufficiently snnoyed the Elysée so that Mr. Pompidou told a French reporter, "At least when I leava power I will take the precaution to tell my brother-in-law to keep

These men are afraid of the ambiguity in the phrase "new perspectives." An opponent of theirs, opposition centrist leader Jean Lecanuet, long a supporter of a European federation, has correctly pointed cut that this referendum makes anything possible, including a federation, majority votes and, despite Mr. Debré, supranationality.

Mr. Lecanuet argues that a blank check is being given to Mr. Pompidou to determine the new perspectives, but that it will be transferred to his successors, who will have their own ideas on the perspectives, and these successors, and succeeding parliaments, ara very likely to have

DARTS Gen de Gaulle used to much less a Gaullist character

It is not too difficult to ima three pillars, direct election of gine what the new perspective, the president, responsibility of the will be. Mr. Giscard dEsiaing, who is certain to play an important role in determining them has described them as coming in four steps, first economic and monetary union, then political union, then confederation. Fallowing these three steps, which he says will take about a decade, be says that Europe should move on to "something more, something original." Aimé Pacquet, one of his chief lieutenants, fills in the missing word, "federation." Asked to define it, he says it is the Europe in which the rule of unanimity—over which De Gauin almost destroyed the communication -will give way to majority rule It is no wonder Mr. Vendronz spoke out. The idea for a European feder. ation is not dead, though it r. obviously not for tomorrow. At the older Gaullists gradually parfrom the scene, it will be earer for the government to define new perspectives. In the legislative elections year from now the Gaullist part is expected to lose at least to seats to the new men, and one high official remarked privately this week that "Pompidou is hoping that they lose that many.

In the end, it is very likely be the British as much as the French who determine how far Europe will go. The French feel that the British, with institutions older even than theirs and with historical interests beyond Europe. will brake the movement toward European unity short of federation. Mr. Dehré has recegnized this and said this week that Britain would never permit the "Swissification" of Europe, meaning, one supposes, its federallzation.

British Motives

The British response to this has been that the future of political union will depend oo the success of economic union, but they point out that Eritish policical motives for joining Europe are at least as strong as its co nomic metives.

Mr. Pompidon can expect : lukewarm success on Sunday, winning his referendum though he might fall sbort of ao absolute majority. He will have opened new perspectives for Europe and at the same time divided and crushed the French opposition so that the future is assured to political parties "European" in outlook.

Any serious chance the opposition had to embarrass hir. Forapidou was ruined when the Communists decided to vote "no." !! the opposition had joined together en masse to abstric. as the Socialists had wanted, Mr. Pempidou might have received a vote so feeble as to have been ite ot As it is, he expects, as he has said himself, the vote to confirm both himself and France as lead ers in the march toward European unity. The definition of that unity lies in the future.

"The Fine Art of Insulting tha English." article by Mary Blume (IHT. April 8-9), reminds me of a Dutch author, W. F. Hermans, who is a master of insults. His superiority in this respect allows him to insult without reason or motive. From a whole list of denigrations of the English-and no Englishman ever has done him wrong-I have picked this one for you:

mature, as I wanted to seem, but it embarrassed me and so again I felt my kiddishness showing, compromising the masculinity I was trying to project.

I was embarrassed because I didn't want to tell him why. It seemed too personal an answer, appropriate for late night bull sessions, but inappropriate, even corny, somehow pompous, volced to a Sigmund Romberg uniformed marine I had just met. Finalmy eyes shyer than my voice, uttered my private truth.
"I want to fight Fascism."

We had something in common, now. It was the one answer for which he wasn't prepared.

Thinking Back

I have been thinking back to World War II. Likely, it's my age; reminiscing seems to be a function of it. But majorly, it's Vietnam and its social and political tributaries that draw me back to it and to a nagging notion that nowadays war is getting a had name and peace too favorable a press.

I am not discussing Vietnam here as either a good or a bad war. What I am saying is that in the arguments leveled at our Vietnam involvement, war as such is getting the bad name.

So much so, for instance, that not long 2go Margaret Mead described World Wer II as ". . . a war that culminated in the horrors of Hiroshima," To a point, true. A wiser, more perceptivs one, however, would be that it was a war that culminated in the closing down of the crematoria, in an end to ongoing geno-

World War II was a good war and it wasn't the first such. More importantly (the resonance I intend in these grumblings), it must not be the last war, lest all the preceding good ones and their tropbies of national and personal freedom are forfeit. Conversely, for all its currently good press, peace has been known to be bitter. In some places it still is and, unless warred on, life is too. Great numbers of enlistees, "interventionists" of the youth generation of the early 1940s, under-

war, tyranny in peace, and they understood it with no less idealism, no less love of life than is lyricized by modern-day folk guitarists

Troubled Feeling

I have paused-stopped is more accurate-in my typing of these paragraphs. Rereading them, redrafting them, rereading them again and again redrafting them I feel troubled. They do not do my bidding. I have not crafted my words so that they are my thoughts' fine and faithful brushes. Instead I sense that I am their portrait, a portrait I don't like much. "Peace in war" is only a shade of meaning removed—a running shade—from War is Beautiful, and resembles me to Dr. Strangelove. Younger, I ianghed nervously at him. No myself middle-aged, is it the inadequacy of my word art, or something more profound, more disquieting deep within me that uggests the resemblance?

I also detect a narcissism, middle years' affection for the reflection of my nineteen years' self as I write now of me then, that I "understood." And crahbiness is there too, the "folk gui-tarists" and "lyricizing" language, Might it be argued that the moral conviction and physical courage that marked the act of anlistment in World War II has its counterpart today, in those because breathing regularly, I felt stood that there can be peace in who refuse to serve? I think the argument makes a case. But I have a more discomforting thought concerning the two generations. I remember my feelings of guilt when as a student, not yet in service, I saw a soldier, or comradely group of soldiers. I too wanted to be uniformed, to not be a civilian, to feel a part of the soldiering Group.

Whether it was a strooger feeling than wanting to fight Fas-cism, I cannot measure now, nor say now which feeling triggered the bus ride to the enlistment station. Even in this writing, a I try, without romance, to understand my then-self better. I am certain only that I responded to both promptings, and that the desire to belong, to conform, was strong. And so I wonder whether my conformity, too, has its counter-part in today's draft dodgers Can it be that as it was the "in thing to be uniformed then, is the "in" thing to dodge servitoday? And if this is my neatly hair-cutted self have in common with today's shag." hairs, not individual bravery but herd conformity?

Ballet_ Bolshoi Shifts Smoothly to Sports Arena

By David Stevens

DARIS, April 19 (IHT).-With a hardly audible shift of gears, the Bolshoi Ballet has left the more-or-less serious atmosphere of the Paris Opéra for the circus ambience of the Falais des Sports, where the company will stay until May 14.

Indeed, any circus would be overjoyed to have some of the spectacular short numbers that enlivened last night's programone of three grab-bag spectacles of excerpts and short ballets that the troupe is offering at the sports arens, along with full-length performances of "Giselle" and "Swan Lake."

The spring-loaded Shamil Yagudin in the "Gopak" and Elena Kholina's impassioned "Gypsy Dance" were great fun, and even Maya Plise:skaya's "Dying Swan" solo had an unexpectedly powerful element of bravura that heightened the emotional impact of this brief but famous warborse. The ballerina had to repeat it to satisfy the crowd, as earlier Yazudin had had to offer a bonus of his astounding leaps.

More Range

But there was more range than this to the program. "Choplniana" (the Eolshol's version of "Les Sylphides") was characterized by Maris Liepa's strong lyrlcism and Svetlana Adyrkhajeva's longlimbed elegance, The ethereal Natalia Besamertnova, partnered by Nicolai Fadeyechev, did the Act II adaglo and young Tatiana Golikova was enchanting in the Russian fiancée's Gance, both from "Swan Lake."

The program ended delightfully with a long extract from the Prokofiev-Zakharov "Cinderella." with Eksterina Maximova sparkling in the title part and Mikhail Lavrovsky (deputizing for her regular partner, Vladimir Vasiliev) doing the Prince's variations brilliantly.

In short, it was a program that showed off almost every leading dancer (except for the injured Vasiliev, who will be back in action in a couple of days; and many facets of the great Muscovite ensemble. The company's orchestra is still on hand, somewhat noisily amplified—the better, perhaps, to drown out the Le Mans-type sound effects from the adjacent boulevard.

Monday was a free night for the Bolshol, and a large number of Russians were among the oaffled onlookers at the triptyque contemporain that is currently bringing the Opera-Comique's season to a dreary close.

In "Syllabaire Pour Phèdre," Maurice Ohana says he is experimenting with language as a phonetic element in the musical structure, but it did not do much to help this static, fragmented and condensed paraphrase of Euripides Luis de Pablo's "Protocolo" sent up a number of society's familiar rituals, notably with planist Christian Ivaldi in a fright wig and Francine Arrauzau hiddeo in widow's weeds collaborating in a groterque soog recital, "Protocolo" at least roused segments of the audience to noisy protest.

Retween the Consoli and Michael Denard offered the Bolshoi guests a sample of Maurice Béjart's approach to dance theater with "Comme la packed with ideas. The mood is rugged and rustic with a strong Irish accent-all the fabrics were imported from Ireland and all have a rough, handwoven look.

Kenzo started experimenting with collars, Mr. Raysse said this morning, but dropped the idea and concentrated on sleeves instead. He has come out with two new ones. One is a modified batwing, broken up by a seam has not been able to keep up with its deliveries and has come close to bankruptcy. For instance, the last ready-to-wear order destined for the United States will never reach tha stores because the clothes, made in Italy, were not ready by the deadline and arebeing returned.

But Gerry Harkavy, whose firm, Mailory, represents Jap in the United States, believes that Kenzo's talent is so great that it is worth it to keep on trying.

Mr. Harkavy had a one-year arrangement with Jap and agreed today to continue to handle not only the knits (they, apparently, never posed a production problem) but also 10,000 ready-to-wear garments which will be on sale in top American stores.

Mr. Raysse claims that he has found a French manufacturer wbo will be able to make the clothes

Theater in New York_

This is how New York Times critics rate new stage productions: "That's Entertainment," a musical directed by Paul Aaron at the Edison Theater, left Clive Barnes with mixed feelings. "The show is a revue of sorts, a musical of undisclosed possibilities. It ls a musical without a book, but with hints of a story." But, after the intermission "whoever was dropping the hints-no one is beld responsible in the program -either lost interest or was dis-The strength of the show—the lyrics and music by Howard Dietz and Arthur Schwartz, "a handsome grab-bag of songs your mother taught you." including such standards as "You and the Night and the Music,"

The plot, that Thompson says "may seem tatte now," involves three sets of thwarted sweethearts, two doddering fathers, pilfered letters, mittaken identity and "a clutch" of

A Ballet Company With Its Roots in Covent Garden

By Oleg Kerensky

SYDNEY (IHT)—It is 10 years since the Australian Ballet was formed, replacing the Borovansky Ballet, and six since the company was seen in London and Paris, though there was an American tour - with Rudolf Nureyev as guest artist—just over a year ago. Some people in Australia evidently regret the passing of the Borovansky company, with its Ballets Russes personalities and repertoire, and feel that the Australian Ballet is too closely modeled on the British Royal Ballet, Since the company is under the joint direction of Dame Peggy van Praagh and Sir Robert Helpmann, both Royal Ballet alumni, similarities betweeo the two companies are not surprising. They are particularly evident during the present Sydney season, which began with a oew production of Sir Frederick Ashton's "Cinderella," continued with his "La Fille Mal Gardée," and ends with a mixed program including "Mam'zelle Angot," and "The Firebird," both in the Royal Ballet's repertoire.

tion is now dead and the Royal Ballet is no bad model for an aspiring classical company. New choreographers of quality are extremely scarce, and the Australian Ballet is at least able to call on the services of Sir Robert Helpmann, who has made several ballets specifically for them. "The Firebird" is a new version by Garth Welch, one of the company's principal dancers, and Ray Powell, one of the assistant directors, who also does choreography. Dame Peggy van Praagh is visiting Europe late this year in search of fresh choreographic talent. And she has to make a ballet for the new theater in Adelaide next year. 17 Performances

Meanwhile, Sir Frederick has been making his Australian stage debut, giving 17 performances of his celebrated impersonation of the timld Ugly Sister in "Cinderella." Perhaps he and Sir and for the finale, and some curtains which suddenly drop to prevent Cinderella's escape from the ball at the end of Act II, facilitating a quick transformation from riches to rags. The costumes are pretty without being notably spectacular, but I am told that Cinderella and the Prince are to be given grander cloaks and Cinderella a more striking ballroom dress. The production stretches the Australian Ballet's resources to the utmost, and the cast has to be augmented with a few students from the company's modern and well equipped Melbourne school. Two ballerinas, Elaine Fifield and Marilyn Jones, recently left, hut there are still three alternate Cinderellas. Two of them, Marilyn Rowe and Gallene Stock, appear as seasonal fairles when they are not dancing the lead, helping to ensure that the ensemble is at its strongest when Lucette Aldous tomboyish and I doubt whether this Cinderella would have knockled under to the Sisters for five minutes. But she acts persuasively, coming into her own at the ball, where ber lightness, speed, musicality and precise technique combine with her strong personality to make her seem every inch (not many inches, as she is very small) a ballerine.

Marilyn Rowe looks enchantingly soft and feminine, and is a very good dancer, though she inclined to wear noisy blocked shoes and has not yet acquired ballerina "presence." Gailene Stock dances well too, but without much facial expression or emotion. Aldous is partnered by Kelvin Coe, a young dancer with an outstanding technique, in-cluding a soft jump, and a pleasing if not particularly aristocratic appearance, Rowe's Prince is Gary Norman, a very handsome young man whose dancing and acting are promising but who is not helped by being prematurely described as "Australia's budding Nureyev," while Stock's partner is Garth Welch, the company's senior premier danseur, who seemed ill at ease in this part.

He was admirable, however, as Colas, the hero of "La Fille Mai Gardée," looking youthful and virile and, after a cautious start, dancing with panache. Marilyn touching and convincing Alain Rowe's gentle personality is less well suited to "Fille," a ballet in which Aldous comes into her own. An evening Aldous appeared in it with Kelvin Coe provided exhilarating dancing. They competed with each other in speed and lightness; he not only made some difficult one-handed lifts look easy but also held one of them. for an extra long time. His danc-since Alexander Grant, without being at all a carbon copy of the original.

The Australian production of "Fille" is virtually a carbon copy of the Covent Garden original though with more realistic lighting effects for the storm scene and with some slight changes in the choreography, notably for the cockerel and hens. The Australian corps de ballet is et least as lively and attractive as the Royal Ballet's, while the Elizabethan Trust Sydney Orchestra played better than the Covent Garden Orchestra sometimes does under the entbusiastic and experieoced baton of John Lanchbery, now musical director of the Australian Ballet as well as principal conductor of the Royal the new policy. Copper has been given priority in the plan. The aim is for French firms to be capable of directly controlling supplies amounting to between one-quarter and one-third of overall French requirements within five years. France currently imports about 330,000 metric tons of copper annually, mostly through non-French suppliers. Through direct and indirect government aid, French firms will be encouraged to expand their exploration activities, especially in Canada and Australia. Development of the vast New Caledonian nickel deposits will also be encouraged. French officials point out that the diversification policy does not imply abandonment of current exploration programs in Frenchspeaking Africa and in other developing countries. However, France will try to avoid putting "all its marbles into one basket" as it did in Algeria with regard to oil exploration, an official said.

Tu Guarantee Risks

Government aid will also come in the form of guaranteeing French investments against war or political risks, the official said. The stockpile plan, designed to protect industry against possible interruption of supplies, will be carried out through the state-run Groupement d'Importation et de Répartition des Métaux, cur-rently in charge of importing and distributing copper.

Although the list of raw materials to be stockpiled and their respective "minimum security" tonnages have not been disclosed. they are believed to include timber and rare metals as well as various ores and non-ferrous

West Germany, with whom trade turnover grew from 544 million rubies in 1970 to 607 million, went from third to second place among this country's capitalist trading partners.

Alusuisse Sees Difficult Year

Swiss Aluminium (Alusuisse) is liliely to encounter another difficult year in 1972 because of excessive worldwide capacity for aluminum production, the industry's large inventorles, labor problems in Italy and pressures arising from the deuteche mark's revaluation, according to chair-man Emanuel Meyer. Alusuisse consolidated earn-ings declined over 50 percent to 62 million Swiss francs in 1971. Mr. Meyer said that Alusuisse has agreed to soil a half interest in its main Italian company. U.S. Airlines Raise Expectations

Major U.S. airlines are raising their traffic growth expectations for 1972. Chief executives of four major carriers—United Air Lines, Amerlean Airlines, Trans World Airlines and Braniff Airwayz—concurred on that note in a panel discussion at a conference in New York sponsored by Institutional Investor magazine. TWA is forecasting an industrywide domestic traffic increase this year of "something over 10 percent" and a gain of over 20 percent for inter-national traffic, up from earlier estimates of only 7 and 10 percent, respectively.

Chrysler Says Prices Will Rise

Chrysler Corp. chairman Lynn Townsend says "there will be a car price increase this fall. I think there is no doubt about that. Although the sicel price freeze will give some cost relief he says, other costs are continuing to rise and there will be extra costs for safety and emission con;rol devices on the 1972 models. Chryster also said it hopes its deficit-ridden Spanish operations will return to the black "in a couple of months" and that it is discussing a possible license to make Wankel rotary engines.

Competition Cuts Benefits of Devaluation

NEW YORK, April 18 (AP-DJ),-Competitive pressures are undermining some of the price advantage that U.S. companies sbould be winning in internationai trade as a result of the dollar's devaluation.

Importers of a variety of goods have heen slow to increase their U.S. selling prices to reflect the currency alignment agreed to in Washington last December. And sellers of some U.S. products overseas have heen fudging on price cuts that should be resulting from the dollar's reduced value. That is not what the world's

Wall St. Turns Timid Over Inflation Report By Vartania G. Vartan

NEW YORE, April 19 (NYT). -Wall Street's bull market turned a bit timed teday as some favorite fast-climbing growth stocks backed away from recent highs on the New York E:ock

Exchange, Also besting a fairly sedate retreat was the Dow Jones judustrial average, off 4.14 to 954.73, after narrowly scaling a 40-month peak at 968.92 yesterday.

At least two factors influenced the marker's action today. One was the debate among meney managers whether to continue chasing glamour issues with high price-earnings ratios, or to concentrate on other arms in the stock market.

Another depressant was the chilling realization that inflation—a critical problem facing the nation in election year 1372-re-

BISCOUNT BANK (FRANCE) S.A. 1 Rond-Point des Champs-Elysées, PARIS (8e)

The Supervisory Board held a meeting on April 14, under the chairmanship of Mr. Harry Eccanati. It closed the accounts and balance sheet for the 1971 fiscal year, and these will be submitted for approval at the Shareholders Ordinary Meeting that will be held May 30, 1970.

-The development of grants to the economy, through larger short and medium-term loans, extended to various sectors of activity; the amount of loans granted to customers at the end of 1971 totaled Fr. 283.573.000 against Fr. 131,464,000 in 1971, representing an increase

The total of the balance sheet rose from Fr. 293,237,000 at the end of 1970 to Fr 529,625,000 on December 31, 1971, representing an increase of 34%.

Mr. Recanati emphasized the importance of the group thus constituted, which will comprise six banking estab-lishments located in France. Great Britain, Switzerland and Holland, and which will give the Discount Bank (France) S.A. greater scope for development,

BRIDGE.

By Alan Truscott

On the diagramed deal West made a fine choice of opening lead. Against routine biddingone no-trump raised to game— he correctly concluded that a major suit should be led. North's failure to use Stayman makes it highly unlikely that he has a suit, and consequently East's long suit, if any, is likely to be a major rather than a minor. A spade lead is unlikely to give away a trick, so many players would make that choice. But West reasoned that a spade lead could succeed only if his partner held considerable strength as well as length in spades.

It was unlikely, however, that East could have strong spades, such as K Q J x, and an outside entry. On that assumption the declaring side could hardly have sufficient combined strength to bid game,

A far better chance was to assume that West's heart honors would contribute to the defense.

NORTH A K108 ♦ AQ1096 ¥ J53 EAST ↑ J54 ♥ J9742 SOUTH (D) ♦ J74 ♣ AK92

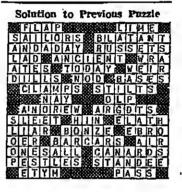

Both sides were vulnerable. The bidding: South West North 1 N.T. Pass 3 N.T. 3 N.T. Pass Pass Pass West led the heart queen.

East might well have a heart suit headed by the jack together with an outside entry. This assumption was in no way inconsistent with the bidding.

Once West decided to lead a heart the choice of card was important. The three was liable to block the suit if East held something like J x x x x, and West concluded that the queen was rather better than the ace. It seemed right to preserve the ace for control reasons, and give np on the faint chance that the king would appear singleton in the dummy.

East signaled with the heart seven, and South won after some besitation. He hoped for a winning diamond finesse or for a four-four split, in hearts, but both chances failed. Holding up the heart king would not have helped, since West would have continued.

Notice that South would have made his contract easily after a passive spade lead. After the diamond finesse lost, East would have done best to lead the heart jack. South would have ducked, planning to play the king if the sult was continued, and the defense would have been helpless.

AN AMERICAN DEATH

The True Story of the Assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and the Greatest Manhunt of Our Times By Gerold Frank. Doubleday. 467 pp. Illustrated. $10.

Reviewed by Christopher Lehmann-Haupt

FRANKLY—and perhaps unfairly—it struck me at first as implausible that Gerold Frank should be the one to dispel the lingering mysteries surrounding Dr. Martin Luther King's assassination. Although Frank has always been respected as an able reporter and interviewer, his taste in subject matter has tended toward the sensational and sordid-to confessions by unhappy Hollywood actresses and ac-counts of exotic crimes. Bluntly, one did not expect the case of King to be laid to rest by the father-confessor of Zsa Zsa Gabor and the biographer of the Boston

Strangler. Yet Frank's reconstruction of King's murder and its aftermath is remarkably convincing and reassuring (that is, to those of us who would prefer to believe that no conspiracy was involved). Perhaps it is just that we have grown numb to such disasters and tired of suspecting conspiracies behind them, but Frank's book ems to clear up most of the major puzzles.

Who exactly was James Earl Ray, the convicted assassin? How did he escape from Missouri State Penitentiary in Jefferson City. Mo., on April 24, 1967? What did he do between the time of his escape and the day of King's shooting in April of the following year? What mysterious figures was Ray in touch with both before and after the shoot-ing? And why did he suddenly seem to have more money to live on than ever in his life before?

These were only some of the obvious questions that troubled us at a time when the idea of still another lone psycho-path striking out at yet another great American leader seemed too coincidental to believe.

More specifically: How, if Ray had acted alone, was he able to assume the aliases of three actual Canadian citizens who bore remarkable resemblances to him? How to explain the mysterious and perhaps damagingly mislead-ing radio broadcast describing a chase after an alternate getaway car during the hours following King's death? What about all the eyewitness descriptions of pos-sible assassins other than Ray? And what was the meaning of Ray's rising in court to challenge the very fabric of his guilty plea? Such questions as these added fuel to an already raging fire.

And more important: If there was no conspiracy behind the act, why did James Earl Ray suddenly change from a penny-ante hold-up man to a Jackal-like assassin stalking a political figure from whose death he would not profit? And why did the team of Memphis prosecutors accept the "deal" of Ray's guilty plea in exchange for a 99-year prison sentence, when they must have known that American public opinion would be frustrated and outraged, and the reputation of Memphis justice tarnished?

To some of these and similar questions, Frank offers specific answers. Ray did not, after all, spend much money during his flight to Canada and Europe: Except when he was en route in transatiantic jets, he lay around in cheap rooming houses. The mysterious radio broadcast proved to be a disturbed teen-ager's hoar. The eyewitness reports describing other fleeing gunmen invariably broke down under closer questioning (as in all major disasters, paranoia struck deep). And it is simply routine practice for criminals to exploit for passport purposes the identities of actual people who resemble them,

To other questions, Frank offers a welter of plausible if unsensational detail. Yes, Ray made many contacts before and after the event; he was, after all, an experienced criminal. But his comings and goings—his visits, phone calls, and exchanges of letters—hardly suggest a conspiracy afcot, at least not when one learns of the bar-girls whom he befriended, the hippies he traveled with the psychologist he con-sulted to build up his self-con-fidence, and the locksmithing. dancing, the bartending lessons he enrolled in to improve his prospects.

As for the larger questions: Frank constructs detailed and convincing explanations. The Memphis prosecuting team was fully aware of the bad impression the "deal" would make. But they weighed the alternative carefully and concluded that a full-dress trial might have far more disastrous results, if only because of the possibility of a single juror's causing a mistrial Besides, Tennessee law required that Ray's guilty plea be accepted, and the absence of a state statute of limitations to first-degree murder meant that the case could always be reopened, if evidence of a conspiracy were to come to light, As for Ray himself: There was more to him than met the eye. He was shrewder than he appeared; more anti-black than be ever let on; more white-supremacist than he generally allowed. He wanted headlines, a big kill, a place in history at whatever the cost. While such speculations have been raised before, Frank's detailed account lends them new plausibility.

Not every question is satisfactorily answered by "An American Death." Some of Frank's most plausible explanations are undermined by his reluctance to describe his exact sources. Those readers who still strongly prefer to believe in a conspiracy will doubtless find grounds to do so. But on the whole "An American Death" makes excellent good sense. If only because its workmanlike reportage fills the vacu-um where fantasy has up until now had freedom to play, it should end at least some of our worries.

Marty Liquori relaxes on the Villanova University campus, and also uses the school's gymnasinm to work out with weights.

Time Is Running Away From Ailing Liquori

By Neil Amdur

VILLANOVA, Pa., April 19 (NYT).—For the first time in his fiercely competitive career, Marty Liquori is running a race against rivals he can sense but not see on a track.

"It's pain and patlence," the 22-year-old miler said the other day at his one-bedroom apart-ment near Villanova University. "If I had a mile for every hour I've spent in therapy over the last three months just waiting to run, I'd be in tremendous

But Liquori has spent more time in the training room than on a track so far this year and is hardly in condition to challenge Tom Von Ruden, Jim Ryun and other sub-four-minute rivals for a berth on the United States Olympic team. And with each day that rain prevents serious training, Liquori's hopes of becoming tha first American to win an Olympic gold medal in the 1.500meter run since 1908 slip further from the finish line.

As late as two Saturdays ago, as "low" mentally as he had ever been, the former threetime national collegiate champlon was close to calling it quits for Munich. He had tried cortisone injections, pills, whirl-pool baths, water polo and in-activity without a cure for the pain in his feet. A friend, Patsy Smithwick, brought a bottle of "holy water" from Lourdes, the French shrine that lures the world's wounded, but to no avail. Even countless 'rosarles" by his grandmother have not brought a change. You ought to get your military physical now," Brian Mc-Elroy, a teammate, told Liquori one day. "They'll think you're a junkle with all those holes in you. A doctor marveled at Liquori's pain threshhold. "You must want to run an awful lot," he told tha world's top-rated miler, after administering another delicate injection in the left heel, "I don't even like giving these shots." track and fleld trials will be beld June 29 through July 9 io Earlier this week, after a visit Eugenee, Ore.—only 10 weeks off even like giving these shots." Earlier this week, after a visit to one of countless orthopedic specialists he has searched out for answers to his foot problems.

Liquori heard another dizgnosis:

"The doctor took X-rays and said there was no tear in the fcot," Liquori said, holding another bottle of pills, these cost-ing $7. "He said. Take these pills, eat the right food and don't worry, you'll make tha team."

Liquori was eo couraged after the meeting. On Thursday, however, the pain in his foot became so severe that he was back on crutches, wondering when he could resume workouts. Making the United States team is more important to Liquori, at the moment, than worrying about the quality of the beer and milers in Munich, site of the Olympics. The American

Injured Victors Win in Chicago

By Gerald Eskenazi CHICAGO, April 19 (NYT).— Continuing to accomplish the improbable, the amazing Rangers played last night without their top goalie, a key defenseman and their leading playoff scorer, bot nevertheless won their second straight hockey playoff game at Chicago Stadium against the Black Hawks, 5-3.

The triumph gave the New Yorkers a 2-0 edge in the best-of-seven-game Stanley Cup semifinal series. The next two games will be in friendly Madison Square

Rod Gilbert, who had been limited to six shots oo goal in seven previous playoff games and hadn't scored, rammed home tha decisive tally in the final period. The slick right wing had also scored earlier in the period.

Over the years, Glibert has been the New Yorkers' finest playoff performer, with 18 goals in 37 playoff games. But against Montreal and in the first game here last Euoday, he had never seemed to be in position to get off a good shot.

At noon, the Rangers had worn long faces, and coach Emila Francis appeared haggard, He had just told the team that Ed Giacomin wouldn't be in the nets and Jim Neilson wouldn't be in his accustomed spot on defense.

had, after all, toppled the Canadiens in six games while Jean Ratelle hobbled on the sidelines with a broken ankle. Since the Rangers were mitted to the National Hockey League, they had never won four straight road games in cup play. This was the night they did it. Wrong Start

BOSTON, April 19 (UPI) -Boston's Fred Stanfield scored three goals last night and line-mate John Bucyk added a goal and three assists as the Bruins overpowered the St. Louis Blues, 6-1, to take a 1-0 lead in their Stanley Cup semi-final playoff series.

Three men were ejected from the game for fighting: Boston defenseman Don Awrey at 15:39 of the second period, and Barclay Plager and Danny O'Sheaboth of St. Louis-after 16:32 of the final period.

Stanfield gave the Bruins a 1-1

Stanfield rifled a shot from the point past Caron in the second period to give Boston a 4-1 lead, then flipped in the puck from the corner of the crease less than nine minutes later. Perjury Vs. Amnesia ASHINGTON.-A 10-year-old to 'correct' their testimony and boy named Virgil has just 'refresh' their memories. written me a letter. He says: "Dear Sir.

"I notice in the newspapers that several Justice Department attorneys have testified in the ITT case. Sometimes one Justice attorney says one thing and then Justice another attorney Says another. Suppose they're lying? Who prosecutes the prosecutors? "Dear Virgil,

"Yours is a very impertment question which really doesn't deserve an answer. To assume that someone in the Justice Department would tell an untruth makes you no better than a Berrigan brother.

Buchwald

"A Justice Department attorney takes an oath that he will never tell a lie-on a Bible. This Bible belongs to the Attorney General. has taken an oath on a Eible that belongs to the Citief Justice of the Supreme Court. who has taken an oath on a Bible that belongs to the President of the United States. You can readily see the trouble 2 Justice Department attorney would be in if he perjured himself on that many Bibles. "What you are confusing is perjury and loss of memory. Several of the Justice Department attorneys have suffered from an inability to remember facts pertinent to the ITT investigation. This is understandable when you realize that most Justice Department attorneys are trained to ask questions, but are very rarely called upon to answer

"If you spent all your life saying. Where were you on the night of Feb. 12. 1961? you would be in a heak of a jam If someone suddenly asked you that question,

"It is for this reason that under our system, Justice Department attorneys in congressional hearings are permitted

ANNOUNCEMENTS

"The fact that a Justice Department attorney says one thing in the morning does not preciude him from saying the opposite in the afternoon. And just because one Justice Department attorney says one thing and another Justice Department attorney says another thing does not mean either one of them is lying. It just means they're getting at the truth from opposite directions.

"Let me give you an example. Justice Department Attorney Wishbone tells a Senate committee that he's never talked to anyone in the Zig Zag Monopoly Company. He goes home that night and his wife reminds him that his brother-in-law is president of the Zig Zag Monopoly Company. So he goes back to the committee and says he's just remembered that his brother-inlaw is president of the company. but he hasn't seen him in 10 years.

"Then he takes a recess break and his secretary tells him he's had 20 meetings with his brotherin-law in the past three months.

"So he goes back to the committee and says he would like to correct the record; he did see his brother-in-law, but they never really talked business. That night his brother-in-law calls him and says he's in trouble with the IRS hecause he's put Wishbone down for 20 business lunches.

"So Wishbone goes back to the committee the next day and says he talked business with his brother-in-law, but he did notliing to affect Zig Zag Monopoly Company's case.

"That, Virgil, is not called perju-y-it's called amnesia.

"I can assure you that your question about who prosecutes the prosecutors has no validity in Washington. There is no reason to prosecule anyone in the ITT case because everyone is telling the truth, and If you keep writing troublemaking letters like this, I won't be surprised if when you grow a little older, someone down here doesn't start tapping your

A view of Stockholm with The Pit.

Whatever Happened to Stockholm?

By Jan Sjöby THE PIT, Sweden.—This point on the surface of the earth, at roughly latitude 59 North and longitude 18 East, used 10 be known as central Stockholm, the parishes of Sts. Clara, Jacob and Johannes.

It was an almost-Parisian maze of narrow streets and alleys, a museum of three centuries of architectural fancy, the press quarter of Stockholm and the home, spiritual and or corporal, of a number of painters and poets, sculptors and scribes, bohemians and burns, It was a place to live, drink and work for the members of the free professions and an admirable shelter against the winter winds out of Lapland Finland and Russia.

The area today resembles Cologne after World War II. Or perhaps Rotterdam or Dunkerque at the same time. It is difficult tell one hole in the ground from another.

Stockholmers thread warily in the district, on wooden footbridges among bricks and rubble, in underpasses and overpasses and along chicken-wire fences on heavily trafficked streets without sidewalks. It isn't called Centrum any more but Gropen meaning, literally. The Pit. Chances are that they'll thread warily for a long time

Great Hole

It all started during the war days when the city officials of 700-year-old Stockholm decided that the place needed a face-lifting. Committees and commissions were formed-Swedes love to form committees and commissions-and elaborate plans were laboriously drawn up between magistrates. city-planning architects and construction engineers. A modern civic center was to be created dominated by five 13-story buildings. When the war was over and gasoline was available for the buildozers, the projet was under way. The old Haymarket Hall was leveled, as was Sergel's (Sweden's national sculptor) palatial home

In the late 50s, the Haymarket district

The second secon

looked as though a multi-megaton bomb had struck in the not-so-distant past. The great hole was eventually filled in by underground garages and underground pedestrian passages leading to stations of the recently completed subway. The five high rises were halled by one lyrical magistrate as "the five trumpet hlasts in the symphony that is Stockholm." Less lyrical Swedes referred to the five architectural cigar boxes as Gronkopingsmanhaitan-Podunk Manhattan, roughly.

Fallen Flat

The lyrical, now retired, magistrate has since admitted that his views on city planning and those of his generation in the city hell may have fallen flat. Gasoline fumes hang heavily over the pedestrian shopping streets in the civic center and shops are closing because of absurdly high rents. At the far end of Podunk Manhattan is an underground square which has turned into Sweden's leading pot

Undaunted, an unholy coalition of politicians and civil engineers in the city plan-ning office went on planning. The Old Town -the original "city-between-the-bridges"was more or less declared a national monument, more or less restored and rejuvenated and turned into a reserve for deserving artists and writers who could afford the new rents. Hilltop cottages in the quaint Söder district were evacuated, showers and toilets were installed, and cultural personages were invited to move in.

Eack on Ostermalm, the traditionally aristocratic end of town, the wrecking crews were allowed a free run. Fine old apartment houses were leveled-including Strindberg's turn-of-the-century hideout, the setting of his "Dream Play" and his "Ghost Sonata." Red brick was replaced by glass, concrete and tile. Those aristocrats who didn't emigrate to Ibiza were relocated in modern dormitory towns in the environs along the subway.

Vox populi rumbled as the old buildings were replaced by banks and office buildings but the Swedes seem to be a quiet lot, even when rumbling. The elected ones and their selected experts let the buildozers loose on the parishes of Sts. Clara, Jacob and Johannes The wrecking teams did an admirable job. Within a few years the traditional center of Stockholm had been turned into a desert. Firms and families had been relocated, a number of fine old restaurants had disappeared, including the Tennstopet, the Lowenbrau and the W6, all favorites with the press crowd, and the Hamhurger Bors, famous cabaret restaurant and an after-hours meeting place for performers at the Royal Opera and the Royal Dramatic Theater. Grand visions were seen in city hall Replacing the old places would be a new (temporary) parliament building (including a mass culture house) and a giant American hotel. The construction of the parliament building was delayed by straight-faced discussions regarding the height of the construction—a question of 31.491 inches—and the plans for the great American hotel petered out when Americans, tired of bickering with the Stockholm authorities about the design of the edifice, backed out.

No Money

Came the recession, a general shortage of cash, government restrictions on nonessential construction. The parliament house was finally built and that was about it. The Pit seems to be there to stay. There is no money to build and who wants to build in a desert.

The Social Democrats in the municipal coalition government blame the nonsocialistic members. The moderates and the liberals blame the Social Democrats for the existing mess. The Agrarian Center party blames everyone except the Center party. Most magistrates seem to agree that something went wrong in the planning process, but no one is willing to pick up the tab.

Svensson, that average Swede who rumbles softly, is likely to agree with popular troubadour Olle Adolphson who recently composed and presented a ballad named Who Are the Nuts Who Are Wrecking Our Town?"

A resident of Sofia, Bulgaria, identified by the newspaper Anteni simply as Venkey, decided this week to play a practical jobon his wife. Rigging a noose 50 as not to hurt himself, Venkov "hanged" himself from a ceiling fixture to await the arrival home of the little woman. A neighborarrived first, saw Venkov in his death posture, and fainted dead away. In Copenhagen, cabinet ministers were waiting for Queen Margrethe to appear for the monthly meeting of the State leave the United States, cutting Council. As usual, Budget Min-ister Per Hackkerup was pulling away on a big cigar. When the queen arrived earlier than expected, Hackkerup quickly passed off the cigar to a royal court footman at the door. Minutes later, Trade Minister Erling Jensen arrived, himself a trifle produced a best-selling auto-biography entitled "The Happy Hooker." She expressed hope that late. "You won't believe this." he whispered to Hackkerup, "but" our new queen is allowing her by the time she returns to the staff to smoke on duty."
